ated States on the subject of the colonial fishery, whether, during the fishing season, it about to commence, the intention of the present British government to protect the inshore fisheries on the same footing as those done by the late government. To this the respondent replied, that the House must be reassured under negotiation. He would not disclose any circumstances which might be prejudicial to the public interest, but the House might be certain that Mr. Croft would lose no opportunity of pressing the subject of the protection of the United States government, and bring it to a conclusion alike honorable and satisfactory to the protection of the fisheries, he was able to state at precisely the same course would be pursued as last, and that Admiral Seymour would be named on the North American coast.

that if the pending negotiations should give the United States the right of fishery on the coast of Nova Scotia, the treaty would secure to Nova Scotia the right to import her coal into the United States. Mr. J. Wilson stated, in the House of Commons, that the alterations in the customs department, these alterations which the government proposed in the customs department. These alterations would be no fewer than fourteen heads. The point of interest to importers is that greater fa-

The Edinburgh Scotsman, of 20th ult., says:—Mrs. E. Stowe and her husband arrived in Edinburgh for the first time yesterday afternoon. For a considerable time prior to the hour of the train's arrival the platform of the railway station was thronged by many hundreds of ladies and gentlemen, waiting nominally to welcome the great authoress, but in reality to catch a glimpse of her. Mrs. Stowe, who is without doubt the most interesting "lion" of the season. On the Waverley

o, a large crowd had collected. As Mrs. Stowe stepped on the railway carriage a cheer was raised, a shouting continued as she passed along the platform on the arm of the Lord Provost, towards her carriage, which was in attendance, and into the Professor and Mrs. Stowe, accompanied by his lady entered. The carriage then drove slowly up the hill from the railway and along the Waverley towards Princes' street, surrounded by crowds of people, a glimpse of the world-famous author of his Cabin." In pursuit of this laudable object, he confessed that several persons broke through the very laws of decency and politeness by hanging out the sides of the carriage and "glowering" in for curiosity as if at the inmates of a wild beast carriage. The increased pace of the carriage these incumbrances were gradually shaken off, but throughout it continued, along Princes' street, it was constantly increased by successive groups of running footmen. Many of these were plainly dressed, and seemed both startled and alarmed by the extreme warmth of her reception. In consequence of this, Mr. Wickham, who came Mr. and Mrs. St. John.

and her party visited the Castle, the University Hospital, and the other points of interest in the evening, a banquet in honor of Mrs. Stow's motion of the anti-slavery cause, was held in the Hall. About fifteen hundred persons were present. Lord Provost (Mayor) in the chair, supported by a number of clergymen, mostly "dissenters." After a "Uncle Tom Penny Offering" contribution, considerable sums throughout Scotland, was handed over, in the shape of one thousand pounds at a request that she would expend it in whatever way she might consider best to advance the abolition cause.

Stowe was presented upon a silver salver, a Stowe personally from the Edinburgh ladies. For Stowe read his wife's reply, and then addressed on his own account, in much the same way as previous meetings.

Mrs. Stowe was to visit Dundee on the 22d ult., and attended meetings at Edinburgh on the 23d and 26th. An influential meeting has been held at Manchester against the present government of India. Mr. Stowe and council, appointed by the crown, is responsible to Parliament, is proposed in the present Board of Directors.

Messrs. Jackson Brothers, of Liverpool, had prepared for the New York Exhibition a splendid full dress coat of crimson satin, covered with rich black embroidery in point lace. It is valued at ten guineas.

At Liverpool news was rather scarce. Mrs. Child was lecturing on Australia. Tyrrell and Wilson were to have been executed at Liverpool, on May 23d ult. are reprieved, as are two women who were hanged at Chester. The Mayor of Liverpool has invited the Mayor and corporation of Dublin and the guests of the former city for a week; Judge Cock Halliburton is included in the invitation. The Corporation of Liverpool have struck for an advance of 10s. per ton on the price of copper, weighing 60 lbs., from a Mine, and is on view at a Liverpool store. A conference of the state of English mercantile law and the judiciary is to be held soon at Liverpool, at the instigation of the Corporation.

An article in the Press, headed "the Empire—1783," has quite startled Paris by its boldness. It is an unscrupulous attack upon Bonapartism that has appeared. The result will probably be a "warning" to the Emperor. Political surmises were scarce and dull. There has been much talk of the abandonment of the proposed line of transatlantic steamships, and of the ready to circulate fables, said it was given up on the instance of the English government. The question, however, was viewed solely in a financial light. M. Pothier, the granting of so large a sum as 16,000,000 francs.
